Steak and Beer with Seamus

Up to 25 people

Join Seamus Garrahy and his lovely wife Linda Bell for an evening of tall tales, while enjoying some of the best steak this side of Amarillo, Texas with all the beer, bread and beans you can eat! Remember to ask him for extra Gung Ho sauce to put on your steaks! It will be a night to remember!

Arrive early on the arranged day to tour the Gettysburg Battlefield and visit the newly opened Visitor's Center. Seamus can help you contact a great licensed guide. Make sure to hire a Park Service licensed guide who will provide some of the best descriptions and history for the three days of battles that changed the course of the Civil War. Touring Gettysburg, where over 51,000 Americans died during what historians say was about 10 hours of combat, is an unforgettable event and made even more so by the visit with Seamus.

After your tour, travel to Herr's Ridge along the Black Horse Tavern Road where Seamus lives. Herr's Ridge is where Confederate General James Longstreet turned around 17,000 troops on the second day of the Battle of Gettysburg and where the Confederates arguably lost the Battle of Gettysburg and the American Civil War.

Last year the winner of this event donated it to the Boy Scouts of Troop 88 Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania for an unforgettable evening. With Seamus' help they hired a guide and toured the entire Battlefield. Afterwards they camped in Seamus' backyard and ate steak and drank sodas until they could barely walk. After dinner, they built a huge campfire and told stories and played games until late into the night.

This would be a tremendous corporate off-site and team building event, once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for a Boy Scout Troop, or perhaps a truly memorable family reunion!

While Seamus can't promise to have a 155 gun parked in his back yard again like he did when the Scouts were there, or have a Cobra Gunship land the next day, he will make sure each and every person has a great time.
